

Lesson 11

READ THESE SENTENCES

Read silently, then read aloud with good phrasing.

1. That firefighter is so muscular that he resembles a wide receiver.
2. The sprightly old gentleman did not suffer from stage fright, even when I turned the spotlight on him.
3. It was shortsighted of my future daughter-in-law's family to react in such a haughty manner to my offer of a moonlight cruise aboard my sailboat.
4. Our neighborhood outlawed overnight parking of eighteen-wheelers, but it was all for naught when the judge overruled us.
5. It's conceivable that the TV station showed three Neil Simon movies in a row at twilight just to improve their Neilson ratings.
6. I was distraught that the upright piano I bought sight unseen via an Internet auction did not match my preconceived notions.
7. Were Mr. McNaughton's civil rights breached when he was arrested for manslaughter?
