

Lesson 11

READ THIS STORY #2, Advanced

The Assassin

It was difficult to think that an assassin would attack the president as he left the Capitol with his cabinet. Yet it did happen.

The incident was of such gravity that there was unity in Congress.

It was evident from what the gunman said that he had lost his sanity.

People said, “We must do something.” They were insistent that we establish decency and dignity again in this republic.