Risky Trip

Rob was one of twenty-three people who began their exodus from Cuba in a small open ship. The trip wasn't legal, and it was very risky. Rob didn't even tell his family of his plan.

A strong crosswind in the channel did delay them. Their supply of drink was gone. All of them were sick.

A U.S. Navy ship did find and identify them. Rob spent a month in an immigrant camp. When he was free, Rob did apply to become a citizen. He is a happy man.
