The VW

Freddy thought he was a lucky fellow. He had enough funds to cover the cost of the VW.

There were some rusty spots, but they could be sanded. The blinker was broken, and the bumper was crushed. The body had been painted blue and yellow. When Freddy had it out for a spin, it was the slowest clunker on the road.

But Freddy wanted it. He felt young and bold in his VW. When others laughed as he went by, Freddy shrugged. “It’s a classic!” he said.
