Electricity

Danny was watching TV. Sue was blow-drying her hair. Dad was checking the mail. I was deep-frying the shrimp. We were all busy when the electricity went off.

Suddenly, it was black in the house. Danny started crying. I told him to stop being so babyish. Dad went to a box on the wall and opened the cover. When he identified the problem, he pulled a switch.

The electricity came back on. Danny was happier. Sue looked prettier. And the shrimp was yummy!
