Matchless Investments

Jess is the president of Matchless Investments. It has been a difficult year for the company. There has been a reduction in profits, and contributions to the pension fund have been less than expected.

At the last meeting, there had been a lot of tension and friction between members of the board. One faction was pushing a resolution that would change the direction of the company.

This month, the convention will be holding an election. Jess doesn't think he can hang onto his position as president.
