Chuck

Chuck likes to wake up before the sun rises. He fumbles for his clothes and brushes his ruffled hair. He tries not to stumble or rattle the door because his wife is still sleeping.

This is Chuck's special time. He fixes something hot to drink and sits at the kitchen table, planning his day. It's so tranquil. He finishes scanning the front page stories in the newspaper.

The sun is beginning to paint the sky with yellow and orange. It's going to be a beautiful day.
